

There is a common misconception that User Stories are just a sentence. This is not even close to the truth!

---

~~As a user, I want to be able change my password so that the password is easier for me to remember.~~

~~As a user, when I change my password, I want the system to tell me which of the password rules I violated so that I can change my password to conform to the password rules.~~

---

~~User story~~

~~From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia~~

~~...~~

~~In computer programming a user story is one or more sentences in the everyday or business language of the end user that captures what the user wants to achieve...~~

---

The truth: All User Stories have 3 components: Card(title), Conversation, and Confirmation (Acceptance Tests).